2. President Hardesty spoke about future partnerships that are taking place at the University and what their implications might be. The Blanchette Rockefeller Neuroscience Institute partnership involves a 501(C)(3) independent corporation located on the campus of WVU built largely with funds from federal and state funding, and private giving from the Rockefeller family. People working there, some may be tenured at WVU, may be jointly applying for projects with neurosciences people. It's a new kind of partnership. The difference is, unlike NIOSH or NETL, we are going to have a private 501(C)(3) as a partner.

Within the next few days an announcement will be made on the "Memorandum of Understanding" between Pitt and Carnegie Mellon and WVU in the area of energy. We will be collaborating to provide services to the National Energy and Technology Laboratory. Three universities working together: one private, one public, and one kind of mixed, with a goal working with the Federal Energy Technology Laboratory which is a government agency.

There are also two parks being built. One is here, where we will be leasing, selling, and partnering with private entities using technology being developed at WVU. For the most part, it is hoped that jobs will be created that will employ our people and maybe involve some of our people on a part-time basis or on the Boards. In Charleston, we are working hard to establish a park given to us by Dow, and developed with Battelle, a commercial-listed company.

President Hardesty said that in the future, the paradigm of what constitutes research at the University and how it is funded and formulated will take on a variety of forms. It raises new questions: what are appropriate partnership agreements, are we getting too commercial or are we not; how should profits be distributed; how should losses be distributed? President Hardesty feels that this is the way the University is going to look in the future if it's going to try to push its research agenda because WVU has neither the funds nor the means to do it all alone, there has to be partnerships. As the University becomes more of a research university, these different kinds of arrangements are out there and we must adjust appropriately as we change and watch for the issues and address them as they come up.

3. It was moved and duly seconded to approve the minutes from the March 26, 2007 meeting. Motion carried. This report may be an opportunity to interact with the board again. Associate Provost Wilson is waiting for HEPC to formally adopt the policy before convening a group with faculty leadership to interpret it for WVU. The Faculty Senate remains disappointed that its vote of April 11, 2007 was not heeded by the Board of Governors, but believes that the future success of WVU is predicted on sincere cooperation between the faculty and the administration.

Therefore, the Senate, as a representative body, (1) affirms that faculty execute the core missions of West Virginia University: teaching, research and service; (2) resolves to work cooperatively with President-elect Garrison and his future administration; (3) resolves to seek enhancement of faculty participation and leadership in University governance; and (4) acknowledges that individual faculty members may hold views divergent from those expressed above.

Due to a full agenda, it was decided to postpone John Weete's (VP for Research & Economic Development) report, which was planned for the May 14th Faculty Senate meeting.

20. The meeting adjourned at 5:43 p.m. to reconvene on Monday, May 21, 2007.
